President's Bark

July 2016

Sometimes we get so involved in our daily lives that we forget the opportunities that we have as a result of the courage expressed 230 years ago. On July 4, 1776, our country declared its independent from England. This declaration was achieved through years of struggle and hardship and the loss of many lives. Our country continues to have struggles and hardships and we continue to lose the lives of those individuals that are chartered with our preservation and protection. The struggles we face with our dogs in showing, breeding, and training are trivial compared to our country's struggles. We all have huge possibilities ahead of us because of these sacrifices. With that said, I want to wish everyone a Happy American Birthday and hope you all have a joyous weekend. I will see everyone at our August picnic which will be held on August 4th at Dave and Helen Criswell's home.

Intracranial Trauma in a Dog Due to being "Swung" at Birth

Grundy SA1, Liu SM, Davidson AP.

A male Labrador Retriever neonate presented for evaluation 8 hours after birth because of the onset of generalized seizure activity. The neonate was one of 8 puppies delivered over a 19-hour period to a 4-year-old female Labrador Retriever at an assistance dog breeding colony. Uterine and fetal heart monitoring were performed during the first and second stages of labor; secondary uterine inertia was diagnosed 10 hours after the onset of stage-1 labor. In addition to standard medical therapy, manual assistance was provided for the delivery of all but the second puppy (feathering, pulling, elevating forequarters, abdominal compression). The puppy presented was the third puppy born. At birth, resuscitation efforts were instituted because of a lack of spontaneous breathing and bradycardia. In an effort to remove amniotic fluid from the airways, the puppy was "swung" by an experienced attendee in an arch from mid-abdomen height to knee height while cradled in both hands with the head stabilized. Initial evaluation of the puppy revealed normal blood glucose and no ultrasonographic evidence of hydrocephalus. Because of continued seizure activity, euthanasia and necropsy were elected. At necropsy, there was gross evidence of subdural hematoma formation. Subsequent histopathology of the brain, liver, lung, spleen, small intestine, colon, and kidney revealed subdural and intracerebral hemorrhage. Findings were consistent with high-velocity deceleration trauma ("shaken baby syndrome"). Traditional neonatal resuscitation via "swinging" is a dangerous and potentially lethal practice capable of inducing significant brain trauma in the canine neonate.

Personal note from the editor: I have always liked the "folding" method for puppies. Holding the puppy in both hands-and touch the nose towards the bottom. You will see fluids bubbling from nose and then use a bulb syringe.
